the busy teaching TEACHER

One of our firsties reminded me that “an apple a day keeps the doctor away” and if that is true then our first grade class is going to be very healthy.

This past week we made apple sauce and apple turnovers. Kids loved peeling, cutting, and cooking the apples. We read and made books about Jonny Appleseed.

In math we began a unit on subtraction. We will have a math test this Thursday on Unit 2/3. We will review in school.

This coming week I will begin to send children home with books on their reading level. These will be books that they can use for their at home reading.

We will be continuing our apple theme by exploring the science of apples.
